Introduction:

Sky Limit Solutions (SLS) is a web developing and designing company which puts your ideas to use in a website attracting many users to live up to their expectations. The SLS build an interactive website to help users engage with the services and resources they require, the services being offered by SLS deals with technological based website meeting your business needs, elevating the business aims and objectives to gain popularity of the websites generated by SLS. The website namely Bookified is about a book publishing and author promotion which contains many information. The services provided by the Book Publishing and Author Promotion site are listed below:

- Purchasing of books
- Promoting authors by the use of book signing events
- Book publishing where the authors get the opportunities to be recognized universally through their impeccable line of work
- About page where the users of the website gains assistance and knowledge about the website and by gaining the contact list being provided in the website
- Links to other resources to guide the users through the navigation tabs

The mission of Bookified is to empower authors whether famous or not, to promote themselves through Bookified connecting them to readers, supporting them and fulfilling the needs of readers through innovation and guidance to help gain recognition to the authors, promoting book signing events, and aspire the world of books with many types of stories, from Disney world books to horror filled books. Encouraging many generations of readers and authors to engage in the world of literacy through the love of books and exploration of another world full of fiction and motivation to strive through ups and downs looking at the world of books.

The Uniform Resource Locator extension being used for Bookified is .com which initially means commercial extension our website's audience is public and not preferably academics as it is not only limited to universities, colleges and research institutes but for entertainment purposes as well in relation to books as it is also a platform where authors come to sell their books to the readers (Vis, 2023). In Bookified ecommerce website where authors come to sell their books, promote themselves, search for books, and publish their books. As it also carries a major credibility and brand appeal while making it easier for the users of our website (Uddeme, 2023)

Content Goals

Type of Website Bookified is as shown below:

- Publishing - produces content in terms of hardcopy or printed and web content or online content.
- Public interest - since the website is mainly concerned with the general public's interests dealing with entertainment, education and e-commerce itself.
- E-commerce - the users will buy the author's books and tickets when there will be promotions held by the Authors of the books whereas the Authors will sell their products while also publishing books
- Educational - the website is educational as it serves its purpose of helping students, lecturers, professors, etc. By providing their resources and books to be published by everyone making it easily accessible.

The website used as an inspiration towards making this site come to reality with features and characteristics are is that it is accessible through the internet as the users are the public therefore it must be accessible to everyone (Scribe Media, 2024)

Audience

i. Aspirant individuals who'd like to publish their books to the world and have a desire to seek information and resources provided on the platform.
ii. Authors who are constantly looking out for venues and platforms to put out their work to the world.
iii. Book Enthusiast - readers who are interested in discovering new books and authors.
iv. Educative professionals and students-who are interested in gaining ideas about different writing techniques and want to have writing guidance.

The needs of these audiences may vary. Authors might need resources on the website for exploring and selecting publishers for publishing process or a self-publishing service on a website that'll be effortless and efficient. Publishing authors need their previous works to be showcased on their profile and new works to be featured and have visibility, a place in the website to connect with other popular authors or publishers and marketing services to increment sales of their book. Users of the website need a diverse range of books and recommendations with reviews.

This website endeavours to bring authors from around the world together on this platform and provide resources to encourage recognition of their best work. It is a place where authors and writers can collaborate with other authors within the same site regardless of gender, nationality and age group. The contents and information on the website are in universal language (English - USA) and have been ensured to be accessible to everyone who aspires to be published and recognized and to empower anyone with dreams of their work to be published.

Site Content and Functional Requirement

The major contents of the website include

- promotional services where authors can promote books through advertisements.
- Author profiles that include bibliography and their published works.
- Book listing where books are categorized by genre and publication date and has book reviews.
- Featured Authors

Functions included in the website are:

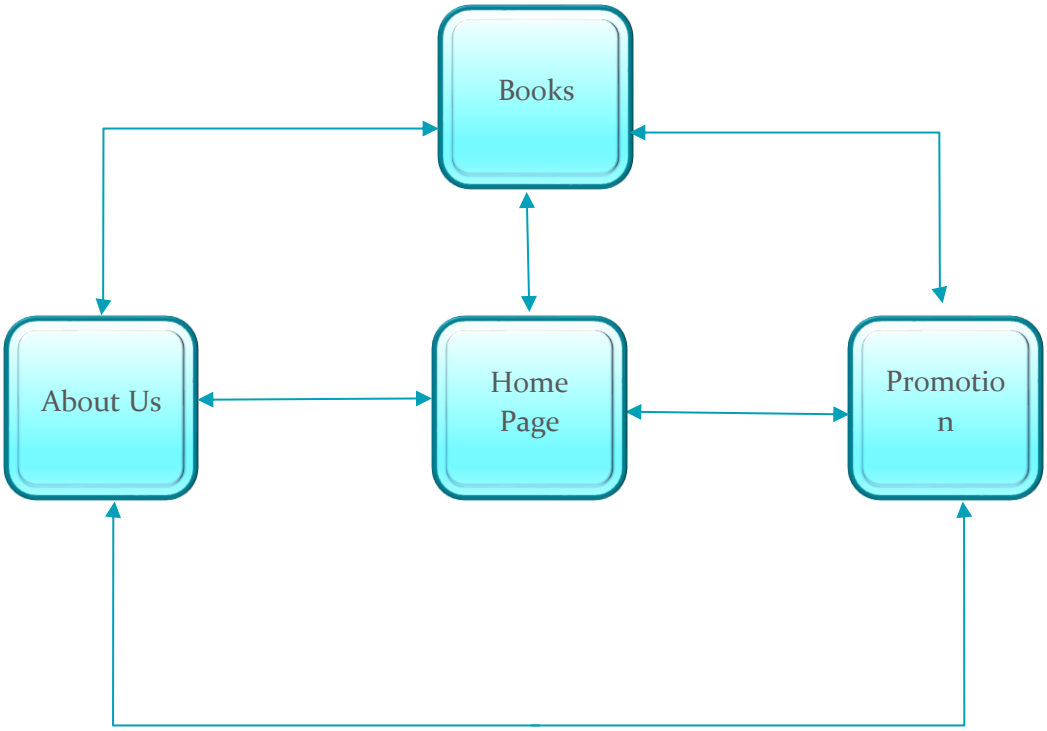
- search functions to filter your search to easily locate your favourite book.
- links to social media which is used to get recognition
- book purchasing
- uploading of author's work

Some of the sites used to get insight of what things should be added to the site is publish drive and Bargain Books and Scribe where these are the most recognized websites with similar purposes of their work.

The contents selected for the site respectively caters for the audience needs and is accessible to anyone who visits the site. Its intention is to enable interaction amongst authors and writers from around the world while providing wide range of resources and opportunities. The information on the website has been harmonized with industry standards by providing assurance on about having user-friendly experience and easy navigation and accessibility when on the site.

Site Structure

The site structure most suited for a publishing and author promotion site would be a web structure as it allows interconnected content, easy navigation from one page to another for users to freely navigate through the homepage, books published, publishing a new book, information about authors, and feedback. The site structure allows for in depth information to be provided to the authors and users to know more about Bookified.



Site Navigation

To know where the user is on the website, “where am I?” effective navigation visual cues such as a breadcrumb trail can be implemented that allow the user or client to easily identify which page they are currently on and how to navigate back if needed. A breadcrumb trail in web development is meant to simulate how it would work in real life as it simulates where on the site the user is currently in and the route taken to get to the current page as well as an easy method to track one’s steps. For example, Homepage>Resources>Published. This visual cue can be implemented into the site thus allowing the user to identify that the current page is “Published”.

For the users to know “where could I go?” makes it essential for the user to know how they can explore the site thus a clear and well-organized navigation menu will be provided for each page along with clear links and easy to follow visual cures. Accessibility is another factor that comes to mind as bold fonts must be visible to guide the end user to know how to get to certain pages of the site. A search option is also available on the site which is a very generic navigation method which most web users are accustomed to thus giving the user a familiar method of going through the site.

“How do I get there?” allows a navigation bar and a search bar will allow the users to easily navigate through the website as every page will have both the navigation bar and the search bar hence providing convenience to the user in terms of page accessibility as any page of the website can be accessed within three clicks. The navigation bar will clearly be visible at the top of every page of the site as well as the search bar to ensure that users are only three clicks away from their desired page or any other task they wish to perform on the site.

The best method for “How do I go back to where I started?” which is quite generic in the sense that it is found in most sites in this era is the breadcrumb trail in other words Homepage>Resources>Published. This is a very effective and easy to use method since most users are already accustomed to this type of navigation. An alternative could be a back button which would allow the client/user to go to the previous page. The navigation bar could also be used to return to a page already visited as it is available on every page of the BOOKIFIED site.

Accessibility

The website should be accessible on a wide range of devices and for users with varying abilities. This includes:

- Desktop Computers: Traditional desktops and laptops with varying screen sizes and resolutions.
- Mobile Devices: Smartphones and tablets with touchscreens and a variety of operating systems (Android, iOS).

Design Considerations

- Responsive Design: Implement a responsive design that adapts the website's layout and content to different screen sizes and resolutions, ensuring optimal viewing on all devices.
- Keyboard Navigation: The website should be fully navigable using just the keyboard, allowing users who rely on screen readers or have difficulty using a mouse to access all content and functions.
- Clear and Simple Language: Avoid overly technical jargon and complex sentence structures. Use clear and concise language throughout the website's content.
- Color Contrast: Maintain sufficient color contrast between text and background elements to ensure readability for users with visual impairments.
- Headings and Structure: Use clear and logical heading structures (H1, H2, etc.) to organize content and improve navigation for both users and screen readers.
- Font Size and Readability: Use appropriate font sizes that are easy to read on all devices and consider options for users who may need to increase font size.
- Accessibility Testing: Perform accessibility testing throughout the development process using automated tools and manual testing to identify and address any accessibility issues.

  By implementing these design considerations, your Book Publishing and Author Promotion Platform will be accessible to a wider audience, fostering inclusivity and ensuring everyone can benefit from your services

Domain Name and Registration Hosting Cost

a. Hundreds of mobile-friendly templates
b. Drag-and-drop design with the SLS site builder
c. FREE hosting, domain name.
d. Easily add store, and social media account and include personal details
e. Analytics portal helps gauge site performance

Bookified's pricing is in the middle of the road when it comes to shared and VPS hosting. Good customer service and uploading books cost money, and most good beginner web hosts fall in this range. The one downfall is the lack of the popular free domain perk, but domain names are easy to obtain for around $10 to $15 with any registrar (Bernheim, 2024).

You can also select, register, and pay for a domain directly from the HostGator signup page. If you're serious about your WordPress hosting, we recommend HostGator's new(er) managed WordPress platform, which is optimized for performance with cloud resources, multiple layers of caching tools, and a complimentary CDN.

Author's Success Stories

J.K. Rowling

J.K. Rowling is one of the world's most renowned authors whose work is widely known while still being a single mother and providing for her children which is hard for most single parent mothers. She started off as "poor as it is possible to be in modern Britain, without being homeless.".She wrote her manuscript for Harry Potter's Collection which turned to be a massive hit after being rejected by many publishers. Since everything is online in this time of year, there's hundreds of opportunities being given to thousands of authors to release their front line of genius work, from entertainment to fictional stories.

E.L. James

E.L. James had a journey of her own writing her dreams through the tip of her pen and the imagination in her thoughts. She proved to be of great worth through her stories especially with the hit of "Fifty Shades of Grey" and engaging across different genres". You can also have this exposure to deliver your work across countries just by the click in your devices and discovering many other books to engage yourself with.

As Ottessa Moshfegh along with her partner where she said "We met in my apartment in East Hollywood, which, as a fiction writer is such a cinematic place to live. So when we would be talking about a story on a walk or over dinner it was always a film that we would be imagining together." And there their journey of endless stories and novels began with a hint of love with the husband and wife sharing the same passion for their books. This is an amazing comeback to people's love lives where most fall in love with. In this time of newspapers and radio stations, there are many a times where people with phones are reading something which aspire them in their everyday life and keeps them going, in this era of falling in love with books. There are opportunities here in this platform. Join and share your stories with us.

Peter F. Griffin

Peter F. Griffin, an author who has just stepped into the world of fiction after finishing his first book "Glass Onion" a thrilling murder mystery. Griffin struggled for quite a while as most publishers refused to publish his book and some were charging absurd fees until he came across our very own BOOKIFIED website where he was finally able to publish his book and received hundreds of positive reviews on our site. Griffin said, "I had such a wonderful experience using this site and the publishing section was super easy to navigate through, thank you BOOKIFIED!".
